

Provost's Teacher-Scholar Recipients

In 2007, the Provost's Teacher-Scholar program was created to provide Assistant- and Associate-level Professors with support toward their development as strong teacher-scholars. The selected faculty will work with campus experts to develop a Career Plan that will enable them to produce more scholarly work in the form of journal articles and proposals for external funding while simultaneously developing their skills as teachers.

We would like to congratulate the following recipients of the 2007 Provost's Teacher-Scholar award:

Hossein Ahmadzadeh, College of Science
Bettina Casad, College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences
Christina Chavez, College of Education and Integrative Studies
Kristen Conway-Gomez, College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences
Timothy Corcoran, College of Science
Winnie Dong, College of Engineering
Greg Hunter, College of Letters, Arts and Social Sciences
Jodene Kersten, College of Education and Integrative Studies
Pablo LaRoche, College of Environmental Design
Jeffrey Marshall, College of Science
Stacy McGoldrick, College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences
Sandra Mizumoto Posey, College of Education and Integrative Studies
Jeff Nessler, College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences
Norali Pernalete, College of Engineering
Laurie Riggs, College of Science
Shantanu Sharma, College of Science
Christos Stathopoulos, College of Science
Fang Tang, College of Science
Faye Wachs, College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences
Zuoyue Wang, College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences
M. Ronald Yeung, College of Engineering
Xuehe Zheng, College of Science